Ejemplo de producci6n oral DELF A1 A Ejemplos de producci6n oral DELF B1 A Ejemplos de producci6n oral DELF B2 A Exemple de production orale DALF C1 A A 1996-2014, Amazon.com, Inc. or its affiliates. A Stage 1: General approach and Brainstorming eAcA On the first reading, identify the nature of the texts, the sources, the type and the common theme (most of the time a title is given for each document providing a hint).eAcA A On the second reading, underline the main ideas and select two main points on which you will work out your plan. eAcA A Afterwards, think of as many ideas, points and examples as possible to use in your presentation. A Unlike the synthesis part, A You will be A expected to express your opinion A by A referring to examples A from foreign or French current affairs and from your own experiences. Once you have noted your main ideas, work out how to convey your key points effectively. Stage 2: Making a plan A Different types of plans may be considered: eAcA A The argumentative plan: you introduce a false assertion then you disprove this argument and you propose a different one. eAcA A The thematic plan: you present a topic from angles and you give your opinion. A You will choose a plan after reading the documents. This is why it is important to understand their type (comparative, informative or argumentative) A from scratch. Stage 3: Introduction A The way you introduce your presentation is essential and you must take into account the following steps. Firstly, A You may start with A either: eAcA A A definition of the theme you are going to talk about; eAcA A A recent event in the news; eAcA A A personal example. Secondly, you present the documents which were handed in to you by A citing their sources: A (the magazine or newspaper; A's title, the author and the date). You will sometimes have documents from the same sources and sometimes not. Thirdly, you A bring out the issue A with a direct or indirect question. Finally, A You outline your plan. A Although this outline should not be too artificial, the examiner must be able to follow the logic of your presentation. You may use for instance: eAcA A A Dans un premier temps; eAcA A A ensuite; eAcA A A ensuite; eAcA A A Enfin; eAcA A A When you introduce your plan, A do not forget to use the future tense. The third part is dedicated to your personal vision and experience of what you talked about in the first two parts. Even though you may think that such an introduction is too fastidious, it is nonetheless the best way to give the examiners a good impression and consequently a good mark. Although it is A out of the question to draft all the talk, A I suggest you write some or all the introduction as we can be easily put off by stress at the beginning of the presentation. A Stage 4: Development A A A A A A A The speaking part includes elements which are inseparable from the act of communication. Obviously you will pay attention to your pronunciation and your intonation but you will also use a specific metalanguage associated with speech. First of all, A The examiners must feel concerned A by A And I dare say engaged in what you are presenting. Therefore, it is good to use with "nous": • Passons si vous le voulez bien a la premiere partie de mon expose... • Examinons maintenant les causes de... • Names que... • Prenons l'exemple de... Examiners should not make an effort to follow your train of thought and arguments. In addition, the use of logical connectors is essential during presentation and you should learn 3 or 4 connectors for each function. As I said before, you don't have to draw up all the presentation and that's why you should write what is the most important to remember. • Before giving a title to your different parts • Then in each of them write your keywords, topics and examples. • and write an explicit transition when you go from one side to another: Abordons maintenant dans une deuxieme partie les raisons de... In addition, you should pay special attention to your third party, as you will express your opinion. As I said before, you need to articulate your ideas using precise and not general examples unless you want examiners to get bored! When you can connect your ideas to French news, it's even better. Find a way to surprise examiners. Step 5: conclusion To conclude with a good presentation, the conclusion must be short and effective. You can write it if you don't feel safe enough. • At first, briefly summarize the content of your presentation in a few lines. You can present them with the following: Par consequent, nous avons constate que... For this reason, the European Parliament and the Council adopted a resolution on the situation in the Middle East. Therefore, it is worth extending the problem with a new question. • Thirdly, thank the public for their attention and invite the examiners to ask questions: I would like to thank the rapporteur for his work. Don't say: Voilà, c'est jà € " " Ai Finito? Do you want to certify your French level? I into this is your site! Yes!
